

The Asian Consortium for the Conservation and Sustainable
Use of Microbial Resources

August 10, 2017

Dear ACM members,

It is my great pleasure to invite you to the International Microbial Sustainable Use Conference and the 14th Asian Consortium for the Conservation and Sustainable Use of Microbial Resources (ACM14) on December 4~6, 2017 in Taipei, Taiwan.

The program of the 14th Annual Meeting is organized with a specific focus on the development of strategies on the sustainable use of microbial resources. Please join us in Taipei to learn, network, renew old friendships, and meet new colleagues who work in microbial conservation throughout Asia. Our three-day agenda is filled with lectures, symposia, roundtables, and visiting tours that will facilitate exchange of expertise and information in sustainable development of microbial resources.

Please visit <http://acm14.bcrc.firdi.org.tw> to register and learn more about the 14th ACM annual meeting. We look forward to welcoming you in Taiwan.

Sincerely yours,

Gwo-Fang Yuan, PhD

Chair, 2017 ACM Annual Meeting

Director, Bioresource Collection and Research Center

Food Industry Research and Development Institute